WEATHER REPORT.

United States Department of Agriculture, New Mexico Section, Climate and Crops Service, Santa Fe, N. M., in Co-operation with the New Mexico Weather Service.

Santa Fe, N. M., June 5.—During the week ending June 4, the temperature averaged 74.5 degrees Fahrenheit. Showers were quite general in northern all sections and in scattered localities light hail fell but no material damage was done to fruit or gardens. Crops of alfalfa are in the second cutting and prospects for an abundant yield continue promising in all portions of the territory. The markets are supplied with an abundance of small game and the game birds are now hatching. Rice are now filling the fields and rapidly replacing the shipped products. In the northern and central portions the first stand of alfalfa is about ready for stranding in the northern portion the second cutting is about to be made, and it is said the yield will be the best and heaviest for several years. The rivers contain an abundant supply of water and the ditches are fairly overflowing. The ranches and pastures were never in better condition generally and in consequence the stockmen are highly satisfied. The following remarks extracted from the corresponding reports show the conditions more in detail:

Alamogordo—C. E. Mead—The weather has been splendid for the growth of all vegetation. Markets are filled with onion crops. The alfalfa crop is well advanced. Alfalfa is beginning to bloom, also winter wheat and fall rye. Gardens are growing nicely and peas and early potatoes are blooming and corn is being plowed in. Alfalfa is fairly good, low, 45.

Hell Ranch—C. M. O'Rourke—The weather has been cloudy with beneficial showers. Hail fell on the 29th and did some damage to fruit. Total rain for the week, 1.00.

Bernalillo—Brother Peter—The first cutting of alfalfa is being done under most favorable weather and the crop is the heaviest for several years. Alfalfa is in bloom and growing nicely. Highest temperature, 95; lowest, rainfall, 6.10.

East Las Vegas—John Thornhill—The mornings have been fine and the afternoons cloudy, with thunder and threatening showers. The mountains are running full of water. Fire growing weather, crops never looked better. Alfalfa is a two foot high and is coming up through the ground. Wheat and oats are growing vigorously.

Fruitland—Cyril James Collier—The nights will keep cool, but everything growing at full speed. Corn high and the plowing is well advanced. It is 20 days ahead of average. Potatoes excellent on ranges. Water plentiful everywhere. Fruit growing nicely. Wheat exceptionally good this year and the alfalfa is doing well. The weather is very hot and threatening rain in afternoon. Highest temperature, 94; lowest, 48.

Gallinas Spring—James E. Whitmore—The week has been fine for growing crops with but frequent light showers. In some localities the alfalfa is coming from here it is reported that a destructive hail storm occurred and that some sheep were killed. Highest temperature, 94; lowest, 48; rainfall, 9.68.

Hobbs—Brother John—The crops are looking fine. Corn and wheat growing very fast. Alfalfa is ready to be cut. High winds during past few days caused considerable trouble to fall from trees. Plenty of water in the ditches. Highest temperature, 94; lowest, 48.

Medina Park—A. M. Sanchez—Warm and cloudy all the week, with two good showers toward the latter part. Corn is growing well and is ready to be cut. Alfalfa is growing rapidly and cherries are ripe. Wheat has headed and is ripening fast. The liver is rising and the alfalfa is in the ditches. Highest temperature, 94; lowest, 52; rainfall, 0.32.

Mill—A. S. Bush—Hail fell on the mesa but in the canyon and in this valley very little damage. Cherries are about ready to ship and other fruits are very promising. Quite cloudy weather and light showers prevailed, and gardens have greatly improved.

Cutting is under way. Some fields have been already secured in fine condition. The yield was large and of good quality. Vegetation is growing nicely. The days have been warm and sunny and threatening rain in afternoon.

Santa Fe—U. S. Weather Bureau—Temperature has averaged several EXPANSION PRECEDENT.

New Mexico Insurrection Furnishes a Bloody Precedent in 1847.

INSURGENTS HANGED FOR TREASON.

Secretary Root the other day furnished the United States senate with an interesting statement of the insurrections in New Mexico in 1847 and California in 1846. In both cases the inhabitants rebelled against the authority of the United States which was asserted in accordance with its mission by Mexico. The conditions were strikingly similar to those in the Philippines. Judge Magoon, one of the officers of the war department, prepared the information from official records. His view establishes these facts.

"The conquest of New Mexico by the military forces of the United States was accomplished by the campaign of 1846. In compliance with instructions from the president, Gen. Kearney, the officer in command, organized a civil government for the occupied territory and filled the executive and judicial offices. The information from official records shows that these officials functionaries entered on the discharge of their duties in apparent unconsciousness of exposure to more than ordinary peril.

December, 1846, the native inhabitants organized a conspiracy to overthrow the United States authority in New Mexico. On the night of January 15, 1847, the governor, the sheriff, the district attorney, the judge and a number of others, citizens and officials of the United States and Mexican ship porters of United States authority were assassinated in the town of San Fernando. In compliance with instructions from seven other Americans were killed at Arroyo Honda and two at Rita Colorado do. It was then apparent that the insurrection was general, and the parties were all the Americans and some Mexicans who had accepted office under the American government.

TROOPS TAKE THE FIELD.

"Col. Sterling Price was then commander of the army of New Mexico with headquarters at Santa Fe. He took the office of the uprising and attendance of the army of the United States. The army of the insurrection was marching against Santa Fe. He took prompt and vigorous action, and marched out to about 400 men. There were many bloody and sanguinary engagements, but the enemy was no longer dislodged from one position than it took refuge in another, and maintained a determined resistance. These attacks "The losses were heavy on both sides owing to the mountainous character of the country, and the fact that the campaign took place in the winter time, the insurgents suffered many hardships before reaching the town of San Fernando de Taos, where the governor and party had been foully assassinated. A particularly severe encounter occurred at the nearby town of Pueblo de Taos, which had been strongly fortified. The insurgents took position in a large church, which they had placed with embrasures for the Americans battered the church and waited for two hours without effect, and were compelled to retreat to Fernando.

"On the following day they returned and renewed the assault, but the artillery seemed to have no effect on the church walls. Ladders were then made and holes cut in the walls with axes, through which the soldiers, with their guns, threw fire and lighted shells in the church. Another assault was made on the church door, which again failed with loss. The artillery was then brought up to within 90 yards and, after ten rounds had been fired, one of holes which had been in two weeks was widened to a practicable breach, through which a storming party entered, dislodged the enemy and took possession of the church.

"The next morning the enemy surrendered. The loss sustained by them was about 150 killed. The number of wounded was not known. The American loss in killed and wounded was fifty."

INSURRECTION GENERAL.

"Under date of January 21, Capt. Hendley, commanding at Vega, N. M., reported to Col. Price that every town and village except Vega and Tucuman had declared in favor of insurrection, and that the entire population had taken arms. The insurrection in eastern New Mexico was inaugurated by the murder of eight Americans at Mora on January 15, 1847, and was continued in force until the following July, having been marked with many atrocities on the part of the insurgents. Thereafter, the insurrection divided into departments, committed by various bands of Indians, Indians, and led by such names as Hardy a party, large or small, traders or soldiers, crossed the plains of New Mexico without being attacked. Many men were killed and large numbers of horses, mules and cattle driven off.

off in the latter part of last campaign safety was secured by stationing soldiers at various points of the mountainous promontory. Fifteen or twenty were stationed by sections of guard-duties. The others were turned over to the civil authorities.

The reports resulting from the inspection of the camp indicate the situation of affairs. That body on July 13, 1948, passed a resolution calling on the president for recognition in regard to the existence of a civil government in California and for recognition of the character, by whom instituted and by what authority and how it was maintained and supported; also, whether any persons had been tried and sentenced for treason against the United States in New Mexico.

"President Polk replied to said resolution in a message dated July 24, 1948, in which he discussed the character of military government, taking the broad position that such a government may exercise 'the fullest signs of sovereignty' thereby explaining the action of the military authorities in suppressing the insurrection.

"The accompanying records show that a similar course of action was followed in suppressing the insurrection in California in 1848, and in re-establishing the sovereignty of the United States there."

AT CAMP WHITCOMB.

The Well-Known Mountain Resort Receiving New Recruits Daily.

"Camp Whitcomb," one of Bernadillo county's well-known and popular resorts, located within a few hours' drive of this city, since the warm days of summer have arrived, is receiving new recruits daily.

Since the last report several of the rooms and tents, which are overshadowed by well grown trees and surrounded by a luxuriant growth of water, has been leased and occupied, while others have been spoken for later on in the summer.

The husband of Mrs. Burros, one of the camp's patients, accompanied by a gentleman, spent the forenoon at the camp.

William Thompson, wife and son, have arrived at the camp. They will occupy one of the stone rooms, and do not intend to spend the summer here. The health of Mr. Thompson is not very good.

Harry F. Lee and wife, in their rubber tire buggy and behind their fast steed, arrived at the camp yesterday, returning to the city this evening. They enjoyed the outing immensely, climbing the rugged hill sides and eating lunch under the bowers of a pine tree.

Dr. A. H. and Miss Edith Stevens, O. A. Matson and Miss Lora Fox, Frank Strong and Miss Lora Fox arrived at the camp yesterday morning, and took charge of one of the stone rooms, which are comparatively attached. Misses Edith and Lora will remain several weeks, the other members of the party returning to the city late in the afternoon.

Dr. A. H. Stevens, manager of the Highland Meat and Supply company, was a visitor at the camp yesterday. He was in a party who climbed the heights surrounding the camp, and fully realized the fact that he is still quite a "young" man.

Yesterday the guides of the camp, Messrs. Carl Gibbs and Robert Hauschild, piloted a party of sightseers to Whitcomb's gold mine—a hole dug in the mountain side, but without a trace of any kind of paying metal being encountered. Mr. Whitcomb sunk several thousand dollars of hard-earned wages into this hole before he realized that it would be wise and more profitable to make work and give more attention to the camp.

Mr. W. T. McCreight, the No. 312 street car avenue milliner, enjoyed several days' rest at the camp, and was charmed with the rugged character of the resort. The trip proved beneficial.

A short time ago while Miss Minnie Wilson and her mother were sojourning in the city the latter, who had been a short distance without feeling greatly fatigued, since being at Camp Whitcomb she can climb the mountains as well as any of the campers, and without exhaustion. The pure mountain air, the substantial meals, the fresh milk and plenty of good water evidently has improved her health.

Robert Hauschild, the Brooklyn, N. Y. artist, who is at the camp, will shift his sleeping quarters from near the hotel to a level strip of ground several hundred feet higher up the mountain side just above the "Bluebird Retreat." He has been proposed to erect a pole and let "Old Glory" float out to the breeze.

Jacob Meyers and Miss Carrie Ragsburger, L. D. Meador and Miss Carrie Meyers were early visitors to the camp yesterday, returning to the city late in the afternoon. They will stay at the camp at the foot of the hill, and after midday lunch spent several hours climbing the mountain.

"Bluebird's Retreat," just above the hotel, is a very fine place in condition for the summer. It is a fine place for the venerable father of the man Bluebird. The "Retreat" is located in the midst of a cluster of pines and cedars—one of the most picturesque spots around the camp.

—THE PHATS' WON.

"The Leans" Were Defeated In the Game of Baseball Yesterday Afternoon.

"The Phats," a team of players of heavy weights recently organized for the purpose of killing every ball hit by the batsmen, and "The Leans," another team put into existence so their bones "can rattle around the bases, lined up at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon and played five innings. Score 21 to 26 in favor of "The Phats." Ed. D. Brown, who tips the scales at "238" pounds, more or less, was captain of "The Phats."

To make a long story short, "The Leans" opened the cannonading by knocking Brooks out of the box in the first inning of the game.

In the first inning of "The Phats," Stoffel started the bombardment by rapping out a home run. This was followed by a few more safe runs and "The Phats" retired with 7 runs to their credit.

Brooks, Pickard and Stoffel were the pitchers for "The Phats," and Shily receiver.

For "The Leans," Sam Pickard was the pitcher, and his team's receivers were Dr. L. H. Chamberlain and John Frey.

After this match the Browns and the Leans played for 10 innings, resulting in a victory for the former team.

2. The new men on the Washburns put up a good article of ball, clearly convincing Captain McDonald, of the Browns, that his team will have to play better ball in the future to defeat them.

Dyspepsia can be cured by using Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. One little Tablet will give immediate relief or money refunded. Sold in handsome tin boxes at 25 cents.
